Honorable John A. McCone
Director of Central Intelligence
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Mr. McCone:

It is a pleasure to inform you that [redacted] of the Central Intelligence Agency, who was selected to attend the Resident Course of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces for the academic year 1961-1962, completed his assignment on 12 June 1962.

STATINTL

You will recall that the College has been charged by the Joint Chiefs of Staff with the responsibility for furthering the preparation of selected military and civilian personnel for important command, staff, and policymaking assignments within our national and international security structure. The resident course embraces the economic and industrial aspects of national security under all conditions, together with the interrelated military, logistical, scientific, technological, political, and social factors affecting national security, in the context of both national and world affairs. Attendance at the College involves continuous close contact and joint effort with officers and civilians of the other services and high echelons of our government.

STATINTL

[redacted] has participated wholeheartedly in the program of the College. He has brought to it an understanding and knowledge of the responsibilities and problems of the Central Intelligence Agency which have helped materially to broaden the base of our studies. In his approach to the study of national security problems he has demonstrated an ability for clear and logical thinking which has earned for him the regard of members of the faculty and student body alike. His work here has been outstanding and merits special commendation.

STATINTL

Attention is invited to the broad basic education which [redacted] has received in the complex and difficult problems involved in our national security effort. It is anticipated that such education will assist him immeasurably in his future work, whatever his particular assignments may be. Proportionate benefits will, of course, accrue to your agency, especially should [] assignments involve responsibilities bearing a direct relationship to national security and the effective management of our national resources. I anticipate further mutual advantage in having personnel from the Central Intelligence Agency enrolled as members of our student body in the future.

STATINTL

Sincerely,

/s/
